

The People's Column

Celebrations for our greatest and most sacred national holiday are under way in every city, town and hamlet in these United States and with these preparations comes the realization of what the day means to every citizen of this great country. It is not and should not be a day for voyages into the woods for recreation only but should be a day when citizenship in America should be thought of and blessed as one of the most valuable assets a person could have. It is a time when introspection should be indulged in by all parties and governmental departments, for the condition of the country today well warrants quite a bit of introspection. It is in Texas a time when every citizen should think of candidates who are up for office. Think of the qualifications of these men and women and try to decide to the best of their ability for the best of the state.

There are issues that in the past have made the present a Bedlam of graft, bribery and corruption of officials, which almost makes a true American hide his head in shame. When men who have been entrusted with enforcing our laws are themselves brought before the (Continued from page 5)

PROBE BEGUN IN ROAN CASE BY OFFICIALS

WITNESSES APPEAR TODAY BEFORE COURT OF INQUIRY

Six citizens of Texas, two resident in Brazos county and four of Robertson county, were summoned today to appear before a court of inquiry instituted before Justice J. T. McGee by County Attorney A. S. Ware, in the matter of the killing of Bill Roan, negro.

The inquiry was based, it was understood, on information that came to the county attorney from various sources. Some information was given him second or third hand, it was said, some came in the form of anonymous letters and some was regarded as highly credible.

The form of examination permits the examination of witnesses separately, in the presence of the justice of the peace and with only the county attorney as inquisitor. The results of the inquiry are then referred to the grand jury, which may or may not return a true bill.

The inquiry results from the finding of the shot riddled body of Roan last Wednesday morning in a pasture on the R. H. Seale farm, about 6 miles north of Bryan.

According to reports made to Brazos county authorities Roan, who had been employed by Henry Bowman, farmer at Benchley, attempted on Monday to attack Mrs. Bowman. Frightened by her cries the negro is said to have fled. He was reported captured by some of the men who had been trailing him but a later report was to the effect that his body had been found on the Seale farm. At an inquest held by Justice J. T. McGee it was believed the negro had been killed after midnight Tuesday of last week.

LANDING MADE HARBOR GRACE EARLY TODAY

Flight To New York Planned Early Thursday

RADIO SAVES PLANE

Directions Given In Fog Prevented Disaster

HARBOR GRACE, New Foundland, June 25.—The Southern Cross landed at 5:57 o'clock Eastern Standard time this morning, spanning the Atlantic from Ireland.

The fliers planned immediately a flight to New York and to San Francisco at daybreak tomorrow. The weather was almost perfect until approaching New Foundland when fog surrounded the plane which flew blindly for more than an hour with radio stations giving directions, without which the plane would have been lost, said Captain Kingsford-Smith, pilot and commander.

Gasoline shortage was responsible for not reaching the United States as New York was the original goal.

The flight was the second successful westward crossing of the Atlantic although, like the German Gremen, the fliers failed to reach their announced goal, the United States.

With Smith were Everett Van Dyke, Patrick Saul and John W. Stannage.

Health Work Threatened

Because of the work done in Brazos county to guard public health and to teach both white and negro residents some of the fundamentals in health conservation, this community has gained an enviable reputation and health conditions within the county are good, comparing favorably with those existent in any other county in Texas, if not in the entire South.

The health work has been in charge of two full time nurses, one negro and one white. The county, it is said, is the only one in Texas that has maintained a full time negro nurse, for work with the people of her race, and health conditions among the negroes have been materially improved because of this work. This same condition obtains among the white population. There is a keener appreciation of the value of health and greater knowledge of how it may be maintained.

Health work in the form carried on in Brazos county in recent years dates from just after the close of the World war. The first nurse was sent into the county from American Red Cross headquarters and worked for practically a year. The cost of maintaining this nurse was heavier than the county could find money for and there was danger that the work would have to be dropped. Then the Texas state department of health offered to pay one half the cost of maintaining a white nurse. The other half was met by the various clubs and by Parent-Teacher Associations. Something more than a year later the county's half of this expense was assumed by the county, the city of Bryan and the Bryan and Brazos county chamber of commerce. This system of financing the white nurse has been continued up to date, though the state, from time to time, has reduced its appropriation for Brazos county, the county commissioners, the city commission and the chamber of commerce making up the balance needed.

Two years ago J. Webb Howell, appreciating the value of the work that had been done among the white population of the county along health lines, offered to give $300 annually for the maintenance of a negro full time health nurse in the county. After many efforts the county and the city agreed to supply the remaining amount. Then the state again came through with an offer to pay one half the cost of maintaining the negro nurse.

Last year the state appropriated $600 for the maintenance of the negro nurse and the other half of her salary was met by the negro chamber of commerce of Brazos county. The appropriation for the white nurse, made by the state was $1,200 and the remaining $600 was borne by the county, the city and the chamber of commerce, additional appropriations being made to meet the expense of administering the county health office.

Today the health work that has been done in Brazos county, and that has resulted in a lower death rate, especially among the very young children, and in more sanitary conditions throughout the county among both whites and negroes, is threatened. The state has advised that its appropriation for the coming year will be cut to $1,000. In doing this the state is following the policy of distributing its aid where most needed to assure the health work a good start. The authorities feel that after it has been well grounded its value will be so apparent that the citizens of the county will arrange to continue it, permitting the state to distribute its funds over a wider area and develop the work in other communities.

The reduction in the appropriation by the state, which is divided equally between the white and negro nurse, means that there must be approximately $1,000 more raised in Bryan and Brazos county than has been necessary heretofore.

It is believed that the negro chamber of commerce membership, impressed with the value of the health work among the people of this race, will make a strenuous effort to increase their appropriation in order that the work of the negro full time nurse may be continued. There is also reason to believe that the county, the city and the chamber of commerce will increase their appropriations for this work so there shall not be any interruption or let down in the work of the white health nurse. The county commissioners already have signified their willingness to do everything possible to find the additional funds to meet their share of the increased cost to the county, if the city commissioners and the chamber of commerce will take a similar attitude.

The value of the work that has been done in this county by the white and negro health nurses may not be measured in dollars and cents. Unquestionably it has been worth many, many times what it has cost. There is today in the county a much higher standard of health. The death rate has been reduced. Epidemics of contagious diseases are practically unknown. Bad sanitary conditions that lead to disease have been cleaned up. Bryan and Brazos county are immeasurably better places in which to live and rear families than before this work was launched.

The matter of raising the additional amount that must come from local sources if the work is to be maintained in the future as it has been in the past will be taken up shortly. This is a project in which every citizen is interested. We cannot be indifferent to the health conditions in the community and there should be no let down in the work that has been done—a work that unquestionably has made for better standards of both health and morals.

While friends of prohibition will do their cause harm if they shut their eyes to the great victory won in New Jersey by Dwight W. Morrow it should be remembered that many citizens voted for him as a man rather than as a "wet." In the eyes of many the individual was so outstanding that the issue was obscured.

One difference between limited agricultural production with high prices and unlimited production with low prices, is that a good many people would have more to eat while the farmer might make just as much money.

Fumes from a still are reported to have killed three Kentuckians. Either racial stock or brand of liquor has degenerated, if traditions of that state and her people are well based.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

BILLBOARDS GOING BY THE BOARDS

Ever since the coming of the automobile the United States has been improving roadbeds. Now, under the leadership of the National Committee for Restriction of Outdoor Advertising, more than 100 organizations are cooperating to preserve and restore the scenic beauty of the nation's roadbeds by insisting that billboard advertising be confined to commercial districts. Already 141 national advertisers and agencies have agreed to add impetus to this movement by removing offending signs or refusing to use the rural landscape as their advertising background.

Besides this, more than a dozen states have either taken, or are planning to take, legislative measures for the control of the billboard nuisance; and many unaffiliated organizations, such as the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Garden Club of America, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, to name but a few, have gone on record as opposed to the spoiling of roadside vistas by the ubiquitous billboard.

The United States spends $1,000,000,000 annually on its highways. The people pay the taxes which furnish this sum. In justice, they are entitled to the enjoyment of the recreational features of the roads they build.

Moreover, the move to restrict this sort of advertising is not likely to work any hardship on the advertiser. The billboards upon the American landscapes today constitute only 1 per cent of all national advertising. Clear away these rural offenders, and business is still entitled to the 99 per cent of advertising left. And, since there is a well-organized tendency afoot to "favor the firms which favor the scenery," prudence would seem to caution any rebellious rural way-side sign users that their hour has struck—Christian Science Monitor.

With Exchanges

The value of a college education is demonstrated forcefully by the fact that at this time when millions of uneducated are begging for work more positions are open to this year's army of college and university graduates than there are graduates to fill them.

One eastern college this commencement is sending 120 young men out into the world of commerce. There are 325 openings for them as soon as they receive their sheepskins, the college placement bureau reported. What is true at that institution is true at most institutions of higher learning.

There may have been a time when the college man was considered poor raw material by the business man. At least that thought has been conveyed by countless cartoons and many attempts at humor. Today the college man is in demand in commerce and industry. Instances are not rare where large firms, in need of new blood in their organization, send out scouts to find promising men and women in graduating classes.

This situation contradicts that once common belief that high education prepared young men and women for nothing. Once blissful in classical ignorance of commerce, colleges and universities are now preparing their students for the hard facts of life.—Corsicana Sun.

Lights and Shadows On Manhattan Isle

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

ON THE ATLANTIC, June 25.—Sitting at the captain's table is as much of an ordeal for the average traveler as it doubtless is to the captain himself. Those so honored must be at every meal precisely on time and depart only when the captain has finished and arisen from his chair.

Experienced voyagers decline such invitations even at the risk of a slight. The favored group usually includes an obese and jowly Duchess, a couple of dressmakers from New York and the Mayor of Apple Gap, Iowa. People who enjoy the privilege are the sort who demand a box at the New York theatre.

This barque has hit upon a novel method of handling the problem. Fifteen different guests are invited to dine nightly with the captain. A—d—surprise! surprise!—a flashlight photograph is taken of each group by the ship's staff photographer. Great stuff—for the photographer.

The photographer on this liner, incidentally, enjoys a bigger income than the poorly paid captain. His revenue from photography is considerable and he is also maestro of the Punch and Judy show, the collection for which at the end of the trip is a sizeable amount.

In addition he operates the moving picture machine in the afternoon and is the electrician at the cabaret performances at night. He is a harried little man—as well he should be—with a set and perpetual smile. And there is Mireille, a manicure girl. I must tell you about her.

She is a brunette with soft laughing eyes from Bologna and is a passionately devoted admirer of Conrad Nagel. When I told her that the hand she was refurbishing had several times clasped the hand of Mr. Nagel she lightly touched it to her lips with an ecstatic gurgle. And I turned red to the ears.

Mireille—the spelling is guess work—haunts Roxey's between voyages in New York to hear the organs and hope for the sight of her dream lover. And so the floating palace plunges on with graceful dips through a slightly rising and falling sea. As I write we are about in the middle of the ocean.

Being a rather meticulous person my pearl gray hat was carefully wrapped in a towel before casting off in New York. My wife reminded me just now, and I thought a shade sarcastically, the ocean was rarely if ever dusty.

Captain Rostrom, of the Aquatania, once told me he had noticed that if the first two days of sailing were smooth there was little sea sickness. People acquired sea legs. For three days the sea has been like the proverbial mill-pond and for the first time in six years I have not had the faintest touch of mal de mer.

Twice deck walking today I thought of the lady-whose-name-I-won't-mention was trying to speak to me from her chair. It may have been fancy or egotism but I hope she doesn't. I am such a soft-hearted ninny I'd have to do a lot of re-writing and stick in her name. As though such a highly publicized person cared!

The French draw no color line. On board is a colored troupe bound for London to fill an engagement. The dusky performers gave a special entertainment for passengers last night. The wife of the star is a mulatto with red hair who sang a blues song. Following the presentation, there was general dancing. One of the ship's petty officers swung about the floor with the mulatto.

Henry Sell and I have been killing time figuring out the occupations of male passengers. One ponderous gentleman with steely eyes and shaggy eyebrows we guessed to be a financier—the sort who sits in a directors' meeting, pounds the table and orders the chief engineer to depart at midnight for Tripoli to inspect the properties. A mere whim that will force the poor engineer to sell his home, take his children out of school, park his wife with her folks and probably be fired by cable upon reaching Tripoli. We indulged in such wild fantasies that we sought Purser Villars who informed us the gentleman was a bird cage manufacturer in Indianapolis, Ind. So I left Henry flab to do his own guessing.

Bong-bong-bong goes the dinner gong. Caviar, duck cooked in orange, Suzette, and salad as only the French can mix it. A sailor's life is the life for me! Yo ho!

Warm Welcome To Be Extended By Steep Hollow

The Steep Hollow Cemetery Association announces its annual meeting to be held at the Steep Hollow church on Sunday, June 29 in an all-day session with a basket dinner at the noon hour. All former residents of the Steep Hollow community, and those whose loved ones sleep in the cemetery there, are invited to be present.

The meeting will begin promptly at 10 o'clock. There will be music, short talks, special speakers and also the annual business session of the cemetery association. C. M. Risinger, president; I. M. Cook, manager; Mrs. Laura Mims Hicks, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. I. M. Cook, chairman of program, have planned for the day to be one of the best yet spent by the association.

All who have visited the Steep Hollow cemetery this spring, and have seen the beautiful flowers blooming there, the clean, well-kept walks and driveways, the well-tended lots and the general appearance of the cemetery grounds, praise and appreciate the Steep Hollow Cemetery Association's work. The resident members of the cemetery association are anxious that it be a day of "homecoming" for all who love Steep Hollow. Plans have been made to care for all who will come.

"It has been ordered that no wagging be permitted on the armadillo races in Bryan on the 4th of July, when the American Legion stages its big barbecue," said Harry Estill. "Who ordered it, and why, hasn't been discovered as yet. But the fact remains that some hot races are predicted and a few wild guesses as to the winners are expected," he said.

Weevils Aplenty Despite Weather Of Last Winter

Cotton growers should be watchful of cotton fields located near woods or other shelter favorable to boll weevil hibernation, according to the latest report on cotton insects, made by Dr. F. L. Thomas, chief of the division of entomology at the Texas Experiment Station. His report is as follows:

"Although the winter was severe on boll weevils, enough have survived according to reports, to justify growers keeping in close touch with the cotton that is located near woods, buildings, or other shelter. Weevils will first appear near such locations and a little poisoning at the proper time may prevent spread and later injury. Boll weevils have already reported from thirty-two counties. No definite information has been received from further north than Bell county in Central Texas.

"Cotton flea hoppers have decreased generally during the last two weeks although in the week just past there has been a slight increase in the number of infested plants in the fields of Brazos county.

"Grasshoppers have been doing rather severe injury in a number of restricted localities of Central Texas."

Bix Boxing Bout On Program For 4th Celebration

Fast boxing bouts are in prospect for the Fourth of July celebration to be staged by Earl Graham Post, No. 159, American Legion, in addition to the armadillo race, which already has interested a number of expert handlers of this new type of racer, according to M. M. Reskine, who is active in working out the program for the observance.

"Rattlesnake" Reasoner of Sweetwater, said to be fast and clever, and "Red" Carroll of Caldwell, claiming the championship of Burleson county, are expected to mix it in the squared circle for a limited number of rounds. These boxers are regarded as well matched and are expected to put on an exhibition of Madison Square Garden or Yankee Stadium standards.

A preliminary that is being discussed, especially by members of the Legion, and that is expected to result in much entertainment to fistic fans, if it can be arranged, is one between Ed Martin and Sam Kaplan.

According to Mr. Estill he has had a number of inquiries regarding the armadillo race from residents of the county anxious to enter their hard-shelled pebas in this contest. A number are said to have laid out circles such as will be provided for the race and to be training their entire ins starting and returning to the center of the ring.

Navasota Will Stage July 4th Free Barbecue

That the Citizens Barbecue on July 4th, sponsored by the Navasota Firemen, is to be a big thing is assured by the arrangements committee who are fast closing up details for a big celebration on that national holiday with all of the community participating.

Navasota business firms responded liberally when the finance committee made a canvass of the city Monday and Tuesday and the committee on program is closing up every engagement as fast as possible.

A feature of the day will be a baseball game between Richards and Navasota teams which will take place at the ball park in the south part of the city on the afternoon of the Fourth.

The barbecue dinner will be served on the open grounds in the same vicinity. Barbecue pits will be prepared in advance and long tables will be built to accommodate the crowds that will be present. The barbecue will be free to all persons on the grounds that day.

There will be speaking during the day, but at present the hour and the names of the speakers cannot be announced.

An improvised dancing floor is to be erected and when the heat of the day is passed there will be staged a big open air dance with music by a fine orchestra.

The Fourth is always a holiday in Navasota and this year there will be a celebration as well as a day of cessation from business. In addition to the program there will be stands of one kind and another and the many other attractions that go to make up a gala day occasion.—Navasota Examiner.

Well Closed Down Near Madisonville

The Indian Petroleum Corporation closed down the well one mile east of town Saturday after drilling 2,851 feet without any showing to justify a further expenditure of money for the development of the oil well. Several strata of gas were found in the well but there was so much water that it was impossible to even make a gas well on this account.

The officials and employees will leave this week after pulling the casing and filling the hole, for other parts. The machinery will be left here for a while and there is a remote possibility that they will drill later in another location.

No test is complete in any locality with one well, according to information from oil men, but all this project is wildcatting and the outcome of the future development here is speculative to say the least of it.

The Shell Company is still planning to drill on the Bedias, near the Trinity river and we are not informed as to the progress these people are making in this locality. We do know that there is considerable activity in that section and that former wells near this place have had some very favorable showings.—Madisonville Meteor.

Lynn Sample, president of the Brazos County Tomato Growers, was in Bryan Saturday and stated he was calling a meeting of tomato growers for next Saturday, June 28, at 2 p. m. at the court house.

Two Bryan Boys Make Honor Roll At Baylor Univ.

WACO, June 25.—Two Bryan boys, John Sidney Smith and Louis A. Beard, made the spring quarter honor roll at Baylor University, according to a final report released today by Dean W. S. Allen. To get on the honor roll it was necessary that these young men make an average grade of 85 to 90 or better on all their work for the spring term. A total of 297 names appeared on the honor roll.

In addition to making the honor roll on his work in general, John Sidney Smith served as one of the associate editors of the "Round-Up," the Baylor annual, a staff member of the "Lariat," the daily student newspaper, and has been elected a member of the Board of Student Publications for next year. This last election was a popular one from the student body as a whole and Smith won by a large majority over both competitors.

Brazos county had a total of 11 students in Baylor this year.

HEAVY DRAIN OF CHAIN STORE PROFITS HITS COMMUNITY PROSPERITY

In a recent communication to the St. Louis Market News, which is keeping tab on the growth of anti-chain store sentiment, C. C. Stubbs of Plainview, Texas, refers to an article by W. A. Masters headed, "The Chain Store, the Catalogue House and the Taxpayer." He says:

"On page nine of the booklet referred to above the following appears: 'Purchases were made in chain stores and in an equal number of independent stores. These purchases were made without at any time revealing the identity of the purchaser, and it was found that the purchases made in the independent stores averaged LESS IN PRICE and SUPERIOR IN QUALITY to the purchases made in the chain store.' If this is true, and I believe it to be true, then the claim of saving the consumer more than they take out of the community becomes another of the advertising propaganda used to GET THE BUSINESS. This is along with the pushing in of the managers into the prominent places in the civic life, and as one chain manager expressed it, they 'hoped' their employees would get church offices whenever possible.

"They say they only take out the miserable little per cent of net profit from 2-1-2 to 1, believe, 4-1-2 per cent from the community in which they operate. Even if this be true, and of course the net profit that they take AWAY is the big thing after all, what does it amount to? Take the average of their own figures, about 3-1-2 per cent on a yearly business of $100,000, that is $3,500 gone from the community. Ten chains in the town and there is $35,000 gone and in ten years $350,000 gone from the community—has not paid any taxes, has not been available for any form of development, has not given work to any laborer, has not built any buildings, but has gone east to be used to the building up of alien interests that are not good for the small town, or its surrounding territory. No community can stand the drain and prosper."

This proposition is primarily economic, but the effects of continued drain and concentration of capital and monopoly of ownership, are bound to be social. They promise a curtailment of community growth and development which will operate to the disadvantage of all factors in the community, even to the chain stores.

The question, Mr. Resident and Taxpayer, are you going to add your little rill to the stream of dollars that steadily are leaving the community, in the shape of profits of foreign owned stores, never to return.

Watch for the home owned business label. It is a hall mark of fair dealing.

State Highway Commission Men Will Be Invited to Bryan; Plans Made to Entertain Old Veterans

Following a discussion of highway matters by the directors of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning, a motion was adopted to the effect that W. S. Barron should be asked to go to Austin Wednesday and confer with the state highway officials and extend an invitation to Gibb Gilchrist and G. J. Wickline to visit Bryan, inspect proposed highway route and bridge sites, in an effort to speed up the work of improving Highway No. 21 and of getting a route approved for Highway No. 6 from Bryan south to the Grimes county line.

The suggestion by Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. and M. College that the Bryan Chamber of Commerce initiate a movement among similar organizations from Waco to Houston, with the object of persuading the state highway commission to improve the unpaved stretch of highway in Waller county, was reported on by Travis B. Bryan, chairman of the highway committee. Mr. Bryan stated he found more interest here in the improvement of the roads of Brazos county than in those of Waller, important though that link in Highway No. 6 might be.

Mr. Bryan also asked that the leadership in handling highway matters coming to the attention of the board of directors be turned over to Jno. M. Lawrence, pleading pressure of too much business to give the work the attention it should have.

The question of establishing a retail merchants credit bureau in Bryan, referred to the city development committee last week, was turned back to the directors by Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, chairman, this morning because she had not been able to get a meeting of the committee. The directors finally endorsed the plan and the availability of J. D. Hefley of Cameron, who seeks to organize such a bureau here, but stated the question was one for the merchants to decide.

John S. Caldwell, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported on plans for the entertainment of the veterans of Hood's Texas Brigade and of Green's Brigade, who will hold their annual reunion here Friday and Saturday. The visitors will be given a complimentary luncheon at the LaSalle hotel Friday noon and an entertainment of music and songs and dancing at the Episcopal parish house Friday night at 8 o'clock.

John M. Lawrence, Jr., reported that the East Texas Chamber of Commerce drive was progressing slowly. A letter was read from Hubert M. Harrison, general manager, urging that the campaign be completed by Saturday night.

Directors present were: N. B. Allen, Travis B. Bryan, John S. Caldwell, W. K. Gibbs, Tyler Haswell, F. L. Henderson, W. S. Higgs, W. C. Mitchell, Jno. M. Lawrence, Jr., M. L. Parker, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree and H. H. Williamson.

Water Supply at Negro Orphanage Cut Off; Well Needs Repairs But Money for Work Is Not Available

Water is a very cheap commodity but when it is not to be had it becomes the most prized thing on earth. It is fine to bath in, splendid for cooking and the best drink in the world, bar none. If at any time in your life you were ever without water you can appreciate what an excellent thing it can be when it is not to be had. As always, unappreciated when plentiful.

There are fifteen little mouths out at the Bryan Colored Orphan Home farm that are now experiencing what it means to be without plenty of water. Plenty to get in a big tub and just have a fine wallow in the cooling stuff, plenty to drink, until there is room for not a drop more. What water they have they have to haul and the work of bringing it from long distances makes it a hoarded and precious commodity. And all because the well on the farm has gone dry, at least it has become choked so that it no longer flows and there is no money to clean it out.

Superintendent Rev. E. M. Griggs said this morning that they were badly in need of either $100 or bricks with which to reline the well shaft and have the sand cleaned out to all of the flow to again start. This will give them back the much needed water, the hauling of which necessitates the use of time needed for making crops and crops are needed to help support the orphanage.

The farm raises most of the table vegetables, he said, as they have a splendid truck garden. They have some cotton planted and Rev. Griggs said he noticed this morning a stalk that had 72 bolls which looks like they are going to have a good crop of cotton.

These things help support the little children who are parentless and who work on the farm. But funds for such emergencies, as walling the well, are not provided for and so Rev. Griggs has called upon the people of Bryan to help him raise the $100 with which to restore the well to its usefulness.

RUMORS—

Peter since February, 1922, Tuesday was reported ill with acute bladder trouble and threatened by the possible setting in of uremic poisoning.

The report threw Vatican City and Roman official and social circles into consternation.

Officially, the first tendency was to discount the gravity of the illness because of the pontiff's vigorous appearance at services in Saint Peter's Sunday for the canonization of two saints. The Pope went through the four-hour ceremony with strong gestures and a firm, resonant voice.

Consultation with doctors and the members of the Pope's intimate suite later revealed the fact that he had been not a little troubled in recent weeks, and that Sunday's services which had been preceded by a thorough drainage, had proved a more severe strain than was anticipated.

The pontiff's condition is understood to have taken a turn for the worse Monday and during the day, chiefly because he insisted on receiving numerous pilgrims from Spain and Italy.

In Vatican circles it is pointed out that for a man who has just turned 73 difficulty in ridding the system of poisons is not uncommon. This would be particularly true of such a man as Pope Pius, who after an active outdoor youth and middle age has been constrained to sedentary life.

As sultry summer weather already has oppressed Rome and the Vatican City, his suite is taking extreme precautions to guard his health. The doctors have counseled rest, and it is hoped that their treatment will prevail over the Pope's active zeal and iron will. Meanwhile, many Canadian and American pilgrims converging upon Rome for the canonization of the eight North American martyrs next Sunday are dismayed at the prospects of the Pope's having to forego pronouncing the decree of canonization. This function he can not delegate to any other church dignitary, no matter how high.

The same holds true for a secret consistory next Monday and a public consistory July 3, when he is to create five new cardinals.

Despite his illness early in the day twenty-one Italian-American sisters of the Order of Filippini and 179 Filippini runs from other countries were presented to the Pope by the superior Monsignor Cremonesi.

NEW OFFICERS—

S. Myers, Henry S. Locke and C. A. Searey, carried the new officers through an initiation that would compare favorably with many of the fraternal order institutions. Blindfolded as they were and being compelled to march about the room, kneel and bow and repeat vows they never expected to keep, the candidates were constantly expecting an electric shock or a goat to suddenly make his way between their legs. Following fifteen or twenty minutes of fun and amusement at the expense of the new officers, they declared revenge again at the membership by sentencing each member present to twelve months hard labor.

The new officers installed were: M. Lamar Jones, president; H. O. Ferguson, R. V. Armstrong and W. S. Howell, vice presidents; Fred Hale, Lion tamer; Mit Dansby, Tail Twister; W. E. Wimberly, C. B. Holzmann, A. S. Ware and W. E. Paulson, directors, and R. C. Franks, secretary-treasurer.

Entertainment features of the day consisted of several vocal numbers by Mrs. Bob Brown of Jacksonville, Ill., who with Mrs. Howell was the guest of Lion W. S. Howell.

Dr. Morris Searey was the guest of his uncle, Dr. C. A. Searey. Lion S. D. Snyder had as his guest E. C. Davis.

Jess B. McGee, county clerk, a newly elected member of the club, was present and formally presented and inducted into the den by Lion A. S. Ware.

Those present were: Harry L. Durham, F. D. Fuller, R. C. Franks, W. S. Howell, C. B. Holzmann, Dr. Lamar Jones, Joe Kaplan, W. E. Leverkuhn, Henry S. Locke, John Maniatis, C. C. Redding, J. Coulter Smith, A. S. Ware, W. E. Wimberly, S. D. Snyder, Fred Hale, C. C. Todd, Jr., Chas. S. Myers, D. Paul Dansby, Dr. C. A. Searey, S. C. Hoyle, Charles Edge, Jess B. McGee, Mrs. Roy Danforth, pianist.

Besides the above many Bryan citizens have offered the use of their cars, and extended many other courtesies to make the stay of these veterans of the '60's just as pleasant and just as comfortable as possible. The committee to secure homes for the visitors wishes to express appreciation for the hearty and cordial response given this year.

With the assembling of the remaining members of Hood's Texas Brigade in Bryan annually, Bryan also has the honor every June of entertaining the life secretary of the brigade, Miss Katie Duffan of Ennis, to whom the members of the brigade look at all times for advice, comfort, love, appreciation and loyalty and never look in vain.

Miss Duffan will arrive in Bryan Thursday afternoon from Ennis, and will be domiciled at the LaSalle Hotel as the special guest of L. S. Ross, Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy of Bryan. A loyal Daughter of the Confederacy since her girlhood she has twice been president of the Texas Division U. D. C.

courts as principal offenders, when judges and counsels allow laws to miscarry because of technicalities written into indictments, when money buys immunity, a day of introspection is indeed a Godsend that should be justified by seeing an overwhelming majority of the voters of Texas out on next election day, July 26.

July 4th, the day American citizens were given their right of free government, liberty and the "pursuit of happiness." Every citizen of Bryan should be out for the celebration at Sue Haswell Memorial Park and make the day one of great rejoicing.

Thos. Kraitchar, chief clerk in the office of the local state highway department is making a business visit today in Caldwell and Cameron.

Orator For Fourth

Col. Ike Ashburn, of Houston, formerly commandant at Texas A. and M. College and well known in Bryan and at College, has accepted an invitation from Earl Graham Post, No. 159, American Legion, to deliver an address at the Legion's 4th of July celebration, to be held in Sue Haswell Memorial park.

Live Stock Show Is Discussed At Smetana Meeting

The summer short course at A. and M. College and the beef show to be held in Bryan in February were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the 4-H Club and Community Adult Club at Smetana held last night.

W. R. McCullough, secretary of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the gathering of the baby beef show, which will be a contest of the best live stock when prizes will be given. The primary reason for the show is to demonstrate how marketing of feed stuff can be made through livestock.

It was announced that plans for the attendance this year at the summer short course will be made at the next meeting of the two clubs.

Rev. W. W. Daup of the St. Andrew's Episcopal church, spoke briefly on the world wide organization of scouts after which Bryan scouts presented a program on the scout laws. Scouts taking part were: Lauren Reppert, leader, the meaning of scouting; Emmett Lenz, meaning of the badge and the law of trustworthiness; Robert Jones, history of the flag; Al Fidel, law of friendliness; John Mendle, the law of courtesy; Melvin Dansby, the law of courage, and Bill Moore the law of obedience.

Robert Jones also rendered a vocal selection during the evening's program.

Britten Henderson, principal of the Smetana school and leader of the Adult Club, asked that all interested citizens meet at the school for the discussion of a picnic in the latter part of July when a state candidate for governor will be present. The time of the meeting was not set.

During the evening R. R. Reppert, entomologist of A. and M. College, Extension Service, astounded the audience with some sleight of hand tricks assisted by Dr. Fred Jensen of the chemistry department A. and M. College.

Minkert In Race; Seeks Office Of County Attorney

J. G. Minkert, native of Brazos county and life long resident, has announced for the office of county attorney, subject to the democratic primaries in July.

Mr. Minkert already has served as county attorney, holding the office from 1918 to 1923 and retiring voluntarily, not standing for re-election. His record shows a percentage of convictions far above the average in other counties and equalled only in one or two counties of the state during that period. During the present term of court, when Mr. Minkert was acting county attorney in most cases and before the grand jury, this record was continued and the affairs of the office were conducted expeditiously and efficiently in the opinion of other court officials.

As an attorney and a candidate for county attorney Mr. Minkert believes that it is peculiarly with in the province of the jury to determine whether or not a sentence is to be suspended and if elected will not make it a practice to agree to suspended sentences. He also advocates a fair and impartial enforcement of all the laws of the state.

Mr. Minkert has been a lifelong democrat, always loyal to the principles of the party and to its candidates.

Political Notes

Dr. C. E. Walker of Grapevine, candidate for governor, opened his campaign Saturday at Lewisville, Denton county, Texas. As far as winning the race is concerned Dr. Walker could just as well have made the meeting the opening and closing of his campaign.

E. G. Senter of Arlington, who quit the race for governor to support Lynch Davidson, who later quit himself, says his hat is still in the ring, if his name isn't on the ballot.

Miriam E. Ferguson and James E. Ferguson will speak at Brenham Friday, July 11, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Murphy W. Townsend, Dallas attorney, was made chairman of the North Texas District for R. S. Sterling's gubernatorial campaign at a meeting of the Houston candidate's friends.

Sterling and Jesse Jones of Houston participated in the conference.

Members of the St. Joseph's parish are busy arranging for the annual barbecue at Sue Haswell Memorial Park, Wednesday, July 16, when candidates will be given a chance to present their claims to the voters.

EAGLET COMES TO THE LINDBURGHS

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, are the parents of a son, born Sunday. The parents are shown above while the Dwight W. Morrow home at Englewood, N. J., where the child was born, is shown below.

Eaglet Comes to Home of Lone Eagle and Mate on His Mother's 24th Birthday; Looks Like Dad

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 26.—The lone eaglet, son of the Lone Eagle and the daughter of America's ambassador to Mexico, lay sleeping in his nest Sunday night, unaware of the acclaim that his birth calls forth from the world.

And, if the way in which his parents conduct their lives and their relations to the public, are an indication, the son of Colonel Charles Lindbergh and the 24-year-old girl who is known to her friends as "Little Anne" will be reared in strict simplicity, designed to keep that knowledge from his ken.

"I don't believe he even has a crib yet," a close friend of the family said Sunday night. "None of us knows anything about the arrangements that have been made for him—his clothes, his carriage or anything. One thing you may be sure of—he'll be as simply reared as any child in America."

From the Morrow home in Englewood, a servant spoke over the telephone to a New York newspaper, expressing some of the gladness within the household. "They say he looks like his father," he said.

Members of the family, however, preserved the same attitude of reticence that has surrounded affairs of the Lindberghs since the colonel's courtship of "Little Anne" in the flower filled garden on the Morrow estate at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

A few hours after the baby's birth, Ambassador Morrow and his daughter, Elizabeth, attended a reception tea given at the home of a family friend in Englewood.

The Lindbergh son and heir was born on his mother's 24th birthday.

The birth of a son was said by a friend to have made the last of the dreams of America's hero of the air come true. For weeks (it was said, Colonel Lindbergh has been dreaming of a son, who could follow in the trails he has blazed through the air.

The mother of the eaglet, who, as a schoolgirl poetess in Smith College, wrote a sonnet to the Lone Eagle shortly after his flight to Paris, also wanted a son.

Since her marriage to the man who blazed a trail over the Atlantic to Paris, she has flown with him north and south, east and west. Colonel Lindbergh taught her to fly. So confident was he in her ability as a pupil, that he seated himself on a club veranda and read a newspaper while she made her first solo flight. And it is said the young mother hopes her illustrious husband will some day teach her son to fly.

Some time after the news of the baby's birth was obtained, newspaper men received information that the child weighed 7 3/4 pounds.

There was much speculation as to what name the child would receive, the most popular guess being Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Mother and child were reported in fine condition.

FIND BODY IN BUSHES AFTER NIGHT SEARCH

Fired One Shot In the Head Behind Right Ear

NO CAUSE ASSIGNED

Left Note To Notify Father; Reported Despondent

(Special to The Eagle).

COLLEGE STATION, June 21.—Showing a pistol wound in back of the head, the body of Herbert Allen Baxter of Sutton, W. Va., summer school student at the A. and M. College of Texas, was found Friday night by a searching party lying in a clump of bushes just off the Sulphur Springs road, about four miles from the college. A 38 calibre revolver was found at the body with one exploded cartridge. A verdict of "death by gunshot wounds, self-inflicted," was rendered by Justice of the Peace J. T. McGee of Bryan, Saturday morning, after viewing the body Friday night.

No cause is assigned by friends of Baxter for his action, though it was reported that he had been despondent recently.

A searching party, headed by Sheriff J. H. Reed, of Brazos county, and Assistant Commandant J. E. Mitchell of the college, was organized late Friday following a report to the commandant's office by a negro that an unoccupied automobile was standing in a lane off the Sulphur Springs road. The car bore a West Virginia license.

According to Mr. Mitchell, student friends of Baxter reported that a note bidding various ones goodbye and asking that W. A. Baxter, of Sutton, W. Va., be notified, was found in Baxter's room just off the college campus. Thursday morning. Nothing said by Baxter having given cause for alarm, uneasiness was not felt until his absence became prolonged.

The report received from the negro regarding the empty car was followed by examination of the car, which was found to carry a West Virginia license, and the organization of the searching party in effort to find Baxter. The car was found in a lane about 300 yards off the Sulphur Springs road and the body of Baxter in the bushes about 150 yards from the car.

ROCK PRAIRIE FARMER MAKES DAIRYING PAY

J. L. Hicks of the Rock Prairie community was a Bryan visitor Saturday and reported to the county agent that his cream check from milk from 5 cows last month amounted to $54.00.

This was net returns of more than a dollar a day above cost of feed, not counting milk and butter for home use. Mr. Hicks is an enthusiastic booster of the dairy industry, and believes that we have wonderful possibilities right here in Brazos county.

NAME JURORS FOR DUTY IN LOCAL COURT

MAY TERM OF COURT IS BROUGHT TO END TODAY

J. L. Edge and John A. Moore of Bryan and Douglass Royder of Wellborn were named jury commissioners for Brazos county by Judge W. C. Davis, of the 85th judicial district, to choose citizens of the city for grand jury and petit jury service during the September term of court.

Today was the closing day of the May term and the docket, according to court officials, is in good shape. Few cases originating during the term were carried over and many cases continued from former terms were cleared from the docket.

Ernest Mason, found guilty of holding up and robbing Morris Schulman some months ago and sentenced to five years in state prison, was formally sentenced by Judge Davis this morning.

At the present time there are four negroes, all under sentence to state prison, in the county jail, in addition there are twelve other prisoners.

This morning Judge Davis and County Attorney A. S. Ware held a conference and the result will be, it is said, court hearing in the cases of all the persons held in the county jail who have not been given preliminary hearings. In remarking on the heavy jail population Judge Davis said, "Brazos county should not be feeding that many persons."

Free Fair Plan Is Discussed by Legion Members

The directors of the American Legion fair held a meeting Monday night at the chamber of commerce rooms to put approval on plans for the Brazos county fair to be held October 16-17-18.

Seven hundred and fifty dollars in cash prizes will be awarded for agricultural products, livestock, poultry, school exhibits, home economics, needle craft, etc. Community exhibits will again be featured this year and more money will be set aside for such exhibits than was the case last year. The present plan will provide that every community making an exhibit will receive a cash prize. Dairy cattle will be a special feature of the livestock exhibit this year. Arrangements will also be made to take care of beef cattle, hogs, and farm mules. In the individual exhibits, cash prizes will be paid for practically everything grown on the farm, such as corn, cotton, peanuts, hay, potatoes, watermelons, pumpkins, pecans, kershaws, fruits and vegetables.

Looking to a bigger and better fair, the directors have made arrangements whereby the spacious and beautiful grounds and buildings at the convent may be used this year for the accommodation of all desiring to make exhibits of Brazos county products. Nothing will be left undone to make the 1930 fair the best in the history of the county, and the forerunner of a better agriculture for Brazos county.

Catalogues detailing every prize will be ready for distribution in a very short time. Committees in charge of the various departments will be named in a few days. Those present at the meeting were: Jess Cook, Harry Estill, Miss Lucy Givens, M. M. Erskine, W. R. McCullough, John S. Caldwell, Hy. T. Schovajsa, L. H. Bartz, Ed S. Martin, Hiram Downard and C. L. Beason.

Record Is Cited By McKenzie; Out For Co. Attorney

Oak McKenzie, Bryan attorney, who announced himself a candidate for county attorney, subject to the Democratic primaries July 26, this morning issued the following statement to the voters of Brazos county:

"My name will appear on the primary ballot next month as a candidate for county attorney.

"It will not be possible for me to see every voter in person, although I would like to, and I will ask that my friends over the county help me present my candidacy to the people.

"My twelve years of residence here will show whether or not I have the welfare of the county at heart. My time and energy has been at the call of every cause that I thought would make Bryan and Brazos county a better place to live in. If nominated and elected to this position I will do my best to be fair and just in all matters brought to me for consideration."

"We wonder if Ross Sterling favors sterling gold bonds to build state highways in Texas," asked a member of the Early Risers Club.

Kings Highway

The King's Highway "Wide-a-Wake Club" met Saturday night to present a very interesting program. Although the crowd was not as large as was expected everybody reported a nice time.

The meeting was opened by the president, Emma Kindt. Lena Novasad, secretary, was called on to read the minutes of the last meeting. Following the minutes and roll call each member was called upon to give a brief report of his project. A prize was given to the one making the best report which went to Lena Novasad.

After the prize was awarded, numbers were distributed among the crowd and the one holding the "lucky number" was awarded a prize which went to Robert Kindt.

Other features on the program consisted of a pie eating contest between two boys and two girls in which Robert Kindt won out. Music by County Agent C. L. Beason and Wilmer McCullough, Secretary of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce and several solos by Mr. McCullough.

Checks awarded to the winners in the yard contest were given by Miss Lucy Givens.

Our next meeting will be July 19. Everybody is invited to come. You better come if you don't want to miss a good program. Don't forget the day. Watch for further announcements of the program and time the meeting begins.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plagens and family from A. and M. spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Kindt and family.

Miss Alma Kindt who is attending summer school at A. and M. spent the week-end with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rhyckle and family from Edge and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Novasad enjoyed a chatting Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Ed Churik's.

Mrs. Hearne and children and Mr. and Mrs. Will Henderson and children from Kurten enjoyed dinner with Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hearne last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Windsor planned to enjoy Sunday morning eating "good old home made ice cream" made in their new freezer. Upon some investigation they could not find the handle to the freezer. What could they do but send to Normangee after a handle. When the boys returned with the handle, they found the real handle inside the can. The joke was on them. In spite of the hard time they had in getting their new freezer to work I know the cream was good—made with two handles.

King's Highway 4-H Club Meet Held Saturday

Home Demonstration Agent Miss Lucy Givens, Secretary Wilmer R. McCullough, County Agent C. L. Beason and daughter Margaret, attended the Kings Highway 4-H Club meet Saturday night and report a most interesting gathering. The meeting was in charge of Esther Tarver and the program included community singing, led by Secretary McCullough and County Agent Beason, reports on club work by the several members, Lena Novasad winning the prize for the best report. A pie eating contest, in which Robert Kindt showed the greatest speed; high points in food conservation and preservation by Miss Givens, announcement of the American Legion fair, special contest, featured by the Bryan Chamber of Commerce, to encourage the marketing of home grown feeds through livestock, baby beavers, hogs and sheep.

Upon explanation of this undertaking, Robert Kindt, who has a club demonstration in cotton, stated that he would also like to join the baby beef club. It was explained that these calves may run with nurse cows until September 1 when they will be put on feed until the show or until they are ready for market some time during the winter. County Agent Beason called attention to the demonstration conducted at Corpus Christi, where a crop of hegarri when fed to beef cattle, paid the farmer $52.77 per acre above the cost of production.

Lena Novasad spoke of the goals that should be set up for their club naming among them greater acreage production of farm crops at less cost, and every member of the club to attend the Short Course. Esther Tarver gave the club pledge as embraced in the four H's.

The next meeting will be given over largely to calling attention to the importance of the Short Course the Lions Club furnishing the speaker for the occasion. Robert Kindt will conduct a harmonica contest.

Canning At Smetana

The Smetana community now has in operation a community canner. Mrs. Ben Siegert, secretary of the women's home demonstration club has charge of the canner. Those in the community desiring to use the canner sign up for it several days in advance, call for it and return it at times specified. In this way there is no conflict in plans. At present they are canning black eyed peas, lima beans, corn okra and tomatoes. They find that the most efficient work is done when a group of four or five ladies meet together for a days canning. Every member of the home demonstration club is doing her best to score 100 per cent on her 4-H pantry budget and the canner is a wonderful help especially in preserving non-acid vegetables and meats.

Millie Novasad Writes

Millie Novasad of King's Highway, who is attending the Boys' and Girls' National 4-H Encampment at Washington, D. C., writes that she is having a great time. She says there are so many things to see that she has no time to write. Millie is one of the four club members from Texas who won free trips to the Washington encampment on the basis of her four years record in club work.

Will Judge Dresses

Dresses made in both the club women's and club girl's dress contests will be judged at the Brazos County Club Encampment July 12. Club women are making wash dresses and the girls are making simple school dresses. The dresses will be judged according to suitability of garment to purpose, material and trimmings, originality, beauty and interest of design, workmanship, appearance on person, laundering possibilities, pressing. First and second prizes are to be awarded in each contest.

Anti-Farm Board

County agents and perhaps others, are being flooded with propaganda prejudicial to the work of the Federal Farm Board, evidently the "dope" being sent out with the hope that county agents may be enlisted to spread propaganda having for its purpose the destruction of the only law the government has ever enacted for the stabilization of agriculture. Nothing doing! down in old Brazos, "dog gone you."

Worth While Goals

At the King's Highway 4-H Club meet on last Saturday night, Lena Novasad, secretary of the club, proposed the following goals for that club: Less cost and more profit. Greater acreage production of farm crops. Better living conditions, more efficient health, and greater service rendered. Every club boy and girl striving for a trip to the A. and M. College Short Course, the state fair, and of every month and in the years summary of sales and profits. A number of cow testing associations have been organized and successfully operated in Texas during the past two years and in sections of the state where the dairy interests are most flourishing and prosperous, farmers are relying almost entirely on daily tests and daily records in selecting animals for use in herd building as well as a means by which to eliminate unprofitable animals from their herds.

Curing Farm Ills

Everybody has a remedy for the anemic condition of agriculture. Some declare the "patient" should be put on a "diet" while others insist that "cutting" should take place. Whatever the remedy, imaginary, internal, external, let it be remembered that agriculture will grow "ruddy" on a fertile soil where a balanced system of farming is used.

Home Grown Feed

Charlie Frosthoff of the Reliance community has on exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce rooms three heads of fine, well matured hegarri, the crop being planted in April. Mr. Frosthoff is one of the many farmers trying to provide an ample supply of home grown feed, and the sample on exhibit indicates that hegarri is a safe crop.

Some days ago a farmer was complaining that a few minutes after making delivery of farm produce to a retail grocer, receiving 3 cents a pound for the product, a customer came along and asked the price of the product and was told it was worth 10 cent a pound. Naturally the farmer was inclined to think he should have received more of the "spread," but evidently there was somewhere too much "overhead," as the late Colonel Lee J. Rountree used to say, "So mote it be."

Tomato Growers Meet

The tomato growers are to have a meeting at the court house on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, presumably to check up on the results of the crop recently harvested. Regardless of the findings, two things have been demonstrated. One is that tomatoes will grow in abundance in Brazos county, and the second is that some money may be realized at selling tomatoes at the lowest price, that of 1-2 cents a pound. Wherever failure occurred, if it occurred at all, it was the result of poor yield and not alone the result of low price. No two men did more to make the tomato business a success than Lynn Sample, the president of the organization and Secretary Will M. Jones. Both of whom gave unstintingly of their time to help put the work over.

Melons For Cash

Victor Aikin, 4-H Club member of the Stabler school, may be seen on the streets of Bryan early each morning trading his fine melons for cash, the economic stamp of 4-H Club work. I. W. Hill of the U. S. D. A. says that the test of club work is its ability to write a check. All right, Victor, go to it.

Guesswork Going Out Of Style In Dairying Just As It Is In Other Industries Of Importance

(BY NELL BENTLEY)

An industrial plant or a merchandising concern that attempted to do business today by guess work would likely come to the end of its years activity with "another guess coming" probably guessing how to get rid of a bad situation.

Guess work is going out of style in the dairy farming business too, and instead of forming attachments for certain animals because they are of gentle disposition or possess other appealing characteristics, every cow in the herd is evaluated according to the figures on her daily record sheets at the end of every month and in the years summary of sales and profits.

A number of cow testing associations have been organized and successfully operated in Texas during the past two years and in sections of the state where the dairy interests are most flourishing and prosperous, farmers are relying almost entirely on daily tests and daily records in selecting animals for use in herd building as well as a means by which to eliminate unprofitable animals from their herds.

This work was begun through the efforts of county agents who secured a number of demonstration herds in their counties and encouraged the farmers to keep daily records on production and feeding rations while they were securing daily butter-fat tests through a testing association. In more than 80 per cent of the herds held under demonstration tests during 1929, cows were found which were returning a fair profit to their owners and by removing the unprofitable milkers from these herds, the average production cost per pound of butter fat was considerably lowered, while the average profits per cow were correspondingly increased.

Not only were the non-profit and low-profit cows weeded out by this process, but in many instances, by changing the proportions of roughage and concentrates used in the milking ration, farmers were able to increase the production of some animals to a point of profit, while in still other instances it was proven that cows gave an equal or even greater amount of milk on rations that were made up of less expensive feeds than were being fed under the old guess work system.

Standard record sheets have been furnished by the Extension Service department for use in compiling records from the demonstration herds. These are very simple and easy to keep, requiring only that the production from each cow be weighed at each milking and the figures be set down in the proper column both night and morning. Blanks are prepared to keep the record for an entire month and each sheet, with the provision for a 31-day record on 12 cows or less. Each cow in the herd is designated by name or number and at the end of the month, each column may be totaled to show production volume for each cow over the period recorded.

In addition to the daily milk weight sheet, a dairy calendar worked out by J. Lynn Thomas, dairy specialist with the Extension Service, is furnished to each dairy demonstrator. This calendar, arranged for the twelve months of the year, carries timely instructions as to feeding, breeding, housing and handling the herd and also in regard to cooling and handling the milk for market. At the bottom of every calendar sheet is a summary blank so that record can be kept for each cow in the herd on total milk production for the month, her percent of butter fat by test, total production of fat for the month, average value of fat per pound for month, total value of fat for the month, pounds of skim milk produced for the month, value of skim milk at 40 cents per gallon and total value of fat and milk for the month.

For the feeding program, records are provided for each cow in the herd; showing the number of days on pasture, cost of pasture, pounds of dry roughage consumed, cost of dry roughage, pounds of concentrates consumed, cost of concentrates, total feed costs, profits above feed costs, and cost of production of butter fat per pound per cow.

Any part of the monthly record will be incomplete and fall short of conclusive information at the end of the year unless all factors are checked carefully, regularly and over a period of sufficient time so that each cow is under test for at least the greater part of a lactation period, according to Mr. Thomas of the Extension Service department, who emphasizes fertility and usefulness of occasional tests taken either early or late in the cow's lactation period.

Several testing associations are now operating effectively in various sections of Texas, including one large circuit in the Panhandle-Plains region through which the dairy department of Texas Technological College at Lubbock is serving some 12 or 15 counties making monthly tests on all herds included in local associations. This project is being carried by means of samples mailed once a month from each herd, with a separate sample taken from an entire milking of each cow entered for test, together with the weight of production for the entire milking from which the sample is taken.

As an example of what is being discovered through the "Tech" testing project, E. E. Prosser in Hale county near Plainview has accumulated information from records kept over the past seven months showing an average profit of $123.54 each month from his herd of 15 cows. The average butter-fat production per cow, per month in the Prosser herd has been 35.3 pounds, with dry cows figuring in herd averages. The use of daily feeding weights made it possible for Prosser to work out a ration which gave him butter-fat at a cost of 20 cents per pound and in computing the feed costs, he provided a market for $213.55 worth of home grown feeds that would not have found ready sale except through feeding to livestock on his own farm.

Other counties that are now carrying on cow testing work under the supervision of dairy experts, are, McLenan, Bexar, Wise, Cooke, Jim Wells and Brooks and Randall and Deaf Smith. These associations have secured the full time services of men who visit each herd entered in the associations and personally supervises the

COLLEGE MEN TO USE AREA THIS SUMMER

U. S. Expert To Join Entomologists At A. & M.

LOUISIANA RESEARCH

Will Be Discontinued To Expand Work In Texas

(From Monday's Daily)

Dr. E. W. Dunnham of the cotton insect investigation department of the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, at Tallulah, La., arrived in College Station today. Dr. Dunnham has been detailed to work with the division of entomology of the Experiment Station.

The bureau of entomology in Tallulah started the work of investigation of cotton insects at the same time the work was started by the A. & M. College, Dr. F. L. Thomas, chief of the division of entomology of the Experiment Station, explained. Because of this the two investigations have been combined in order to coordinate efforts and save time and expense.

"We are now," Dr. Thomas said, "going to make a thorough and complete investigation, for the Brazos bottoms is a fine field for this work. It is a tough problem we have before us but we feel that now we are going to get somewhere. The investigation is not a problem of putting out poison but to discover the habits and how the worms migrate. Especially do we want to know what happens after they go into the ground. We know their general life now but we have no thorough knowledge of their life in the soil. Since the cooperation of the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture with us we feel that now we will make some real progress and have the entire situation solved in a few years."

R. W. Mooreland, field man from the Delta laboratory, the name by which the bureau is designated in Tallulah, La., has been in College Station the past year working with local authorities on the same problem. Mr. Mooreland and Dr. Durham are sent out from the office of B. R. Coad who is in charge of the cotton investigation for the United States.

Dr. Dunnham will be here indefinitely.

Monster Catfish Netted By Kulak Party In Navasot

One of the largest yellow cats taken this season was brought into Bryan this morning by J. M. Kulak, after it had been netted in the Navasota at Sulphur Springs. The fish tipped the scales at 48 pounds.

With Mr. Kulak were J. M. Boriskie, R. Tichack and Charles Blaha of Dallas. Mrs. Kulak and Mrs. Blaha went to the river with the fishing party for a time Friday night.

In addition to the big cat, the party also took a number of other fish of good size.

weighing of milk and the taking of samples, conducting the tests on the farm where samples are obtained with equipment carried along in their car.

Where sample cases are mailed out from the testing station to the farms where samples are to be taken, each bottle is designated to receive the sample from a specific animal and preservatives are placed in the containers to make milking safe, yet no substance is used which would in any way alter the per cent of fat contained in the sample.

It is obvious that much information of value to local farmers and business interests, might be gained from the conduct of testing demonstrations in this immediate vicinity, and it is expected that several demonstration herd tests will be begun in the near future with County Agent C. L. Beason, assisting with the daily record work, the testing work to be carried on through the dairy department at A. and M. College.
